Broaden Your Perspective on Volunteer Engagement

April 26, 2022

Does your organization consider volunteers mainly as unpaid staff assistants who help you stretch your budget or do you think of volunteers as mission collaborators? We will discuss the true power of volunteer engagement and explore how to develop meaningful volunteer roles that expand your power base and lead to mission impact.

Presenters: Sheri Wilensky Burke, VEC Program Manager, RSVP & President, Sheri Wilensky Burke Consulting LLC; Julie Booth, CVA, Volunteer Coordinator, The Open Link

Strategies for Boosting Your Board's Engagement

May 24, 2022

So here you are, mission established, fundraising initiated, processes in place. Everything is working well and your services are impacting the community you serve in a positive way. But one challenging area exists: fully engaging your board. This impacts many nonprofits. Often people become involved in the board, then not always actively engaged in steering the organization. A committed board is CRITICAL to mission success in every aspect of your nonprofit's operations. So how can you get your board fully engaged? Do all board members participate equally? Are all of your members active? We will demonstrate successful ways to motivate and energize your board members, and incorporate necessary recognition, education, and development. We will review and demonstrate practices that result in building a successful board. Because when your board succeeds, your mission succeeds.

Presenters: Gene Davidov, RSVP Board member; Ron Gawel, RSVP Board President

VEC is partnering with the Regional Foundation Center at the Free Library of Philadelphia to offer an additional learning experience:

You Can't Predict the Future....But You Can Prepare for It!

April 19, 2022

Explore the concepts of scenario planning and how to apply it to your organization with a hands-on exercise during this virtual session. Scenario Planning is a process that envisions possible future states based on today's trends and uncertainties, but unlike strategic planning, it considers likely, as well as unlikely futures, ensuring your organization is prepared for even the most improbable outcomes. Construct plausible scenarios that your organization may, anticipate the needs of the populations you serve and prepare your organization to meet the future.

Presenters: VEC Consultants Marla Hexter and Wesley Moy Ph.D.
